

North Islington Nursery School and Children's Centre
Special Educational Needs and Disabilities (SEND)
Information Report April 2019

How do we support children with Special Educational Needs or Disabilities (SEND)?

- All staff are responsible for every child in their care.
- Where a child is identified as having a special need or disability we aim to put effective special educational provision in place.
- There is a Code of Practice 2014 which helps us understand the children's needs and how we can help them make good progress. It defines a child under compulsory school age as having special needs when he or she “has a significantly greater difficulty in learning than the majority of others the same age or has a disability which prevents or hinders him or her from making use of facilities of a kind generally provided for others at the same age in mainstream schools”. (The SEND Code of practice 2014)
- We aim to meet the needs of individual children through effective teaching and learning
- We work in a flexible way to develop effective partnerships with children and their parents/carers and other health professionals

We cater for all forms of Special Educational Need as long as we can offer provision safely (for that child and other children in our care).

We are committed to meeting the needs of all pupils including those with special educational needs and disabilities (SEND) and believe that all children, including those with SEND have a unique contribution to make. We carefully differentiate provision to ensure that all children can access a full range of stimulating educational experiences. We believe that the child's family should be fully involved in the process of planning for and supporting their child with SEND and that our role is to ensure families have full access to information regarding their rights and entitlement.

We aim to meet children's medical needs as far as we are reasonably and safely able to. This may sometimes mean that staff receive specialist training to be able to offer routine procedures that allow children to gain access to a full nursery day or to a full range of experiences.

What are the school's policies for the identification and assessment of pupils with SEND?

We identify whether a child has a special educational need in a number of ways;

- Children may start nursery with a recognised or diagnosed SEN.
- Parents may raise a concern about a child's development.
- Nursery staff or other professionals may raise a concern regarding a child's development or presentation.

What happens when a concern is raised?

When a concern is raised, the SENCO (with the child's keyperson) discuss the concern with the child's family, including what they have noticed and how they would like to explore this further which may include;

- The SENCO and/or staff carrying out observations looking and listening to what the child is doing, their strengths, interests and challenges
- Assessing the child's developmental level with regard to age related expectations of development, e.g. EYFS outcomes
- Seeking advice from specialists such as the Children's Centre Speech and Language Therapist, Educational Psychologist, Clinical psychologist and Health visitor.

The SENCO and/or keyperson would then share any conclusions with the child's family and involve them in planning the next step which may be;

- Continuing to monitor the child's development closely
- Create a Short Term Plan
- Do either or both of the above with the support and/or input of relevant professionals

Short Term Plans are written in collaboration with the child's family, the SENCO, relevant staff working with the child and any professionals involved. They are reviewed around every 6/8 weeks and become part of an Assess, Plan, Do and Review cycle that is refined and repeated depending on progress, the level of need and support.

The short term plans outline targets for the child's development with strategies to support these both in the classroom and where relevant at home. Families are encouraged to take part in setting and reviewing these targets and offering support at home. These meetings are also used as an opportunity for parents and other professionals present to share any recent or future information regarding the child's development, appointments or feedback from assessments/observations.

The SENCO is usually available to meet parents/carers at short notice to discuss any relevant or recent concerns.

What is our approach to teaching children with SEN?

- We consider that good practice for children with SEND is good practice for all children and aim to offer outstanding, rich learning experiences in all areas of development for all children, including those with SEND.
- We aim to integrate children with SEND as much as is possible and support is mostly offered within the classroom as part of usual classroom routines. However there may be times when the child's short term targets are supported in a smaller, quieter space.
- We differentiate our provision to ensure that all children can access activities at a range of developmental stages. Staff plan, discuss and provide children with an environment where they can take part in an experience at different levels and in different ways.
- We take advice from professionals such as speech and language therapists, physiotherapists, educational psychologists and occupational therapist and others to inform the plans and resources provided for children with SEND.
- We plan for particular experiences to support children with SEND to make progress and to reach their agreed targets. These experiences will be planned on a daily basis.
- As much as possible activities are offered in mixed groups with or alongside children meeting age related expectations.
- We have a flexible approach based on the child's need not what is convenient or conventional.
- Whenever appropriate we adapt the learning environment to offer better access to children with SEND, for example providing a sloped board for a child to engage in mark making.

- We aim to work in partnership with the child's parents/carers to achieve the best outcomes for the child.

What additional support for learning is available to children with SEN?

- We employ extra support staff who have a specific responsibility to support the development and needs of children with SEND. This sometimes means that they will work directly with the children with additional needs or support their access to another adult led activity by working alongside them. Although it is not possible to work with children with SEND individually at all times there will be times during the day where a specific target will be supported on a 1:1 ratio for a short period of time.

What features of North Islington Nursery School and Children's Centre might support children with SEND?

- We offer home visits to all children before they start as a means of establishing an open, supportive relationship between the school and home. It is important to us that all children have a positive start to nursery and establishing a positive relationship with the key person is important as is a gradual settling in period. This may sometimes mean that depending on the severity of need, a child may only attend for a few hours every day until he/she is able to extend this time.
- We are very lucky to have a large outdoor environment which has some features that can enhance the development of young children. It includes a large climbing frame, opportunities for swinging including a large hammock, sand and water area, mud kitchen, and irregular slopes, surfaces and steps.
- We offer a Language group which provides additional support for those children who require support with all areas of communication (attention and listening, speaking and understanding). The groups are run every day and are small, short and snappy groups led by the SEN educational support workers and supported by the SENCO.
- Our building is wheelchair accessible and we have a lift to access upstairs, a disabled toilet and baby changing facilities.
- We seek advice from professional colleagues in the local authority, for example The Early Years Inclusion Team for advice about Autistic Spectrum Disorder, physiotherapists for advice around specialist equipment and speech and language therapists for communication concerns.
- With advice from professionals we would also purchase any additional equipment and resources to support development where appropriate.

- The school is committed to reflecting and improving our interaction with children on an ongoing and regular basis. Working alongside a speech and language therapist, staff work in partnership with a colleague analysing and reflecting upon their interaction with children in the classroom.
- Access to family support services, clinical psychology and other Outreach Services including Stay and Play, ESOL, housing support and targeted parenting support.
- We are committed to and value having a close working relationship with all parents and carers.

Roles within the nursery in regard to SEN, SEN co-ordinator details

The SENCO (Special Educational Needs Co-ordinator details)

- The SENCO (Special Educational Needs Co-ordinator) is the person in the school with special responsibility to ensure that the needs of children with SEN are met and that families are fully involved in planning and evaluating the provision for their children. In the school the SENCO must be a qualified teacher.

The SENCO here is; Becky Powell

Contact details; becky.powell@islington.gov.uk

- Our Area SENCO (assigned by the Local Authority) is Pauline Foster. Contact details; pauline.foster@islington.gov.uk
- It is the responsibility of all staff to know what individual targets are set for each child with SEN and the Room Leader with the support of the SENCO to ensure that activities are planned to ensure that there are opportunities to achieve these targets.
- Education support workers are responsible for facilitating the majority of work with children who have targets and as much as possible attend relevant short term planning meetings and work closely with any professionals involved.
- Children with SEN are monitored and observed by the same process as all children but in addition have regular short term targets where progress and challenges are discussed and reviewed.

How are staff trained and supported to work with children with SEND? And how is our provision monitored for quality?

- Staff, including the SENCO, have access to a variety of training in relation to supporting children with SEND. These include staff meetings sessions and more specialist courses off site e.g. Makaton and understanding Autistic Spectrum Disorder. We have a link with the outreach team at both The Bridge School for children with social communication disorders, Richard Cloudsley special school and Samuel Rhodes Special School. We have access to training and support from the Community Speech and Language Therapist.
- We have close and regular contact with our assigned Education Psychologist, Speech and Language Therapist and Clinical Psychologist as well as professionals from Islington's Social Communication Team and Early Years Development Team. The latter are multi-disciplinary teams including occupational therapists, speech and language therapists, physiotherapists and clinical psychologists. Through our work with psychologists we have links to the wider "Child and Adolescent Mental Health Service" or CAHMS.
- We work closely with our local Health Visiting Team and through them are able to communicate when needed with GPs and paediatricians. The SENCO meets once a term with the school Family Health Advisor. When a child has a particular medical need staff will receive training from the community nursing team.
- Our work with children with SEND and their families is monitored by the Local Authority. We also self-evaluate and are inspected by Ofsted under Section 5/8 and Ofsted Early Years Registration Inspection. These reports can be downloaded at www.ofsted.gov.uk
- As a school we have an active Governing Body overseeing our work. We have a governor responsible for monitoring provision for children with SEND who visits and ensures provision and monitoring is at a high standard. Our current governor with responsibility for SEN is Julia Griffiths.
- Formal observations and regular "learning walks" by the senior leadership team and our link inspector support the monitoring of quality practice and provision.

How do we involve and consult children with SEND and their families in their education?

- We offer a home visit to all children before they start their place in the nursery. This gives parents a chance right from the start, to express any feelings, concerns or possible worries about their child's education. Families are invited to attend all planning and review meetings relating to their child's education and are encouraged to fully participate. We try to make these meetings as accessible as possible by offering dates and times most convenient for them. Although these meetings are often attended by other professional involved it is the child's parents/carers who are the priority.
- In addition to reviews of children's Short Term Plans we offer reviews of children's progress termly in relation to the EYFS and an integrated 2 year old review in partnership with the child's parents/carers and the health visiting team.
- We encourage families to join us on educational visits and participate in any school social and celebratory events.
- The child's key person is available on most days for a brief informal chat regarding their child. An appointment can be made separately with the SENCO or key person on another day to discuss any issues or concerns. As much as possible we aim to keep in close contact with families via newsletters and through Our Nursery Child parent online portal.
- We offer other ways for families to give more general feedback through the annual parent/carer survey.
- When available we promote information around training courses available to parents, e.g. at Centre 404.
- We encourage all parents/carers to consider becoming Parent Governors whenever there are vacancies.

- As the children we work with are very young it is difficult and not always possible to include their views and voices directly into the planning. However, we pay close attention to their current interests and fascinations and try to include these in how we plan and provide for them.

How do we settle children in and help them make the transition to primary school or to another setting?

- We have a well-established policy to support children settling into their nursery place. We believe that going at each individual child's pace is important and believe that children need to have at least one close relationship with an adult before they are left by their family member. We are aware that children all have different needs, particularly if they have SEND and we are always willing and open to extending the settling in process as is appropriate for that child.
- We are aware that any transition to a different setting can be challenging for children, but in particular those with SEND. We offer as much support as we can to families in making this important choice for their child by organising transition meetings with the child's new school in good time, visiting schools with the parent and the child, where possible inviting staff from the new setting to visit the child at NINS; preparing resources such as a transition book, passport with photo's together with a leavers report and profile of work and photographs.

How do parents raise a concern or complain about the SEN provision at North Islington Nursery School and Children's Centre?

We have a clear procedure for families to raise concerns or make a complaint about our provision. The procedure is as follows;

- We would first invite and encourage the family to discuss any concerns with the child's key person or room leader.
- If this situation is not resolved we ask families to raise their concern with the SENCO.
- If further support is needed families are asked to discuss the matter with the Head Teacher (Sally Franklin).
- If the Head Teacher is unable to resolve an issue then we ask families to raise their concerns with the Governing Body for the School.
- If the Governors are unable to solve an issue then the families can take their concerns directly to OFSTED who can be contacted on 03001231231.

- If a family are concerned about a child's well-being or safety and are not satisfied with the response from the school they could consider contacting Children's Social Care directly on 0207 5277400.
